DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bachman (US Patent No. 6,315,196).

As per claims 1-16, all the claimed features are substantially taught by Bachman particularly the functions of generating a financial payment advice in response to quests and answers received from a user. Applicant is directed to column 14, lines 15-57 of Bachman. Bachman is directed to a system for obtaining the financial situations of a client and providing financial advices in response to inquiries from the client. Note again column 14, lines 15-57 of Bachman. The only difference between Bachman and the claimed invention is that Bachman does not specifically teach the use of a graphical use interface or the displaying of different types of icons illustrating a financial situation. However, the Examiner asserts that the use of graphical user interface including windows, icons and images or graphics are well known in the art. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Bachman to include these well known features therein with the motivation of providing users with instant access of descriptive buttons and when clicking those buttons instant access of associated data would be displayed thus providing users with the ease of using the system.
